There is no grove on earth's broad chart
But has some bird to obser it;
So hope sings on in every hears,
Although we may not hear it.
Ind if to-day the heavy wing.
Of sorrow is oppressing, Frechance to-morrow's sun will bring the sweary heart a bleesing.
Far life is sometimes bright and fair,
And sometimes dark and lonely,
Let us forget the toil and care,
And note the bright hours only.

We bit the joyous moments haste,
And then forget their glitter;
We take the cup of life and taste
No portion but the bitter;
But we should teach our heart to deem
Its sweetest drops the strongest;
And pleasant hours should ever seem
To linear round us langual.
As life is sometimes bright and fair,
And sometimes dark and lowely;
Let us forget the toil and care,
And note the bright hours only.

The darkest abalows of the night
Are just before the morning;
Then let us wait the coming light,
All boding phantoms accruing;
And while we're passing on the tide.
Of time's fast obbing river,
Let's plack the blossoms by its side,
And bless the gracious Giver.
For life is sometimes bright and fair,
And sometimes dark and lonely;
Then let's forget the toil and care,
And note the bright hours only. The darkest shallows of the night

HERAD NOT WHERE TO LAY HIS MEAD.

The only rest on earth Thou lov'st within A heart that for Thy sake
Shall purify itself from every sin.

A TERRIBLE WARNING. A Fast Young Man Squanders His

Fortune and Turns Thief-His Arrest-A Strange Story. From the San Francisco Alta, March 18. As in all large cities, we, too, have characters who for months move in re spectable society unsuspected of being apable of committing crimes, but whose lepraved natures are such that, while be ing permitted to move in these circles they are concecting plans and schemes to rob the community, in order to keep up appearances, being unwilling to turn an onest penny by the sweat of the brow. Such men come to our shores, and in cerof kind people and betray their confidence, until they are "spotted," and come in tain ways manage to obtain the friendship the bands of the police. Several days since the detectives arrested on of this class, who is now in custody. The individual is Henry St. Clair, a native of New Orleans, 24 years old. He is a man of good appearance, and has received a fair education. His career is one deserving of more than a passing notice. When the late war broke out he, with his father and several brothers, then living in New Orleans, engaged in mercantile pursuits, joined the Confederate army, assisting as well as they knew how to overthrow our Government. During the war his father and brothers were killed He, however, remained, until with his comrades, he was compelled to return, He proceeded to his native place, and had hardly arrived there before he received the intelligence that his mother was dead, Not a friend or relative was left him, all had died in behalf of the "lost cause, A young man without experience, or any with whom he could consult, he was left alone and deserted. The estate left him had not been settled, and as soon as circomstances permitted, he took steps to have it arranged. It netted him between $8,000 and $10,000. Having closed the affairs of the estate, he knew not what to do, although possessed of some means, and finally concluded to travel in foreign countries. Bidding adicu to his birthplace, leaving none behind to mourn or shed a tear for him, he took passage on board a sailing vessel and landed in Bolivia, South America. He remained there a short time, and again started on his travels around the world. The means at his disposal, which he used most lavishly made for him many friends on his voyage After having left Bolivia, he made a fly ing trip to the South Pacific island of Borneo, thence to Calcutta and then to China. His stay at each of these different places was so brief that the thought of seeking respectable employment was one of his last, there being no immediate necessity therefor. From China he proceeded to Yokohama, Japan, arriving there about the time the Tycoon and Satsuma were at war.

Here he made the acquaintance of an influential rentleman, who soon secured for the Tycoon and Satsuma were at war. fluential gentleman, who soon secured for him the position of military instructor to the Satsuma's troops, giving them instructions in the art of using European weapons, with which to cope with their oppo nents. He received a handsome salary-$250 a month-for his services; which, however, were not required for any great

Being deprived of his occupation, and his treasury constantly decreasing, he concluded to leave for a more genial clime, took passage on one of the P. M. S. S. Co.'s steamers and arrived in this city in the month of July last. For some time he led here, as in the countries he had traveled through, a fast life, and had even made the acquaintance of respectable families in whose residence he was always a welcome visitor.

Time rolled on, and in the short space of a few months he was left without funds, of which he had uselessly squandered. He says he sought for employment but such as he desired he could not obtain, until at last he acknowledges that compelled by his necessities, he turned Phief, commencing his operations with the new year. Some of the acquaintances he formed in his visits to the gambling hells and other dens of iniquities, soon gave him the "cue" how to go to work, and, procuring skeleton keys he s'arted into his new business (at which, for a time, he proved himself to be very apt) on a wholesale scale. His operations were mainly confined to boarding-houses which he visited in the day time. During his short career, he has committed numerous burglaries, and his choice was mostly valuable articles. His collection of lar cenies embraced watches and jewelry, o all descriptions, fancy articles, and fin clothing, which he disposed of for a mere song. These burglaries were reported at the police office and decriptions of the property left, but no trace of a clue as to who was the perpetrator The matter was placed in the hands of Capt. Lees and detectives Stowe and Sellenger. The amounts involved being not only large, but many of the articles relics, the officers went energetically to work to ferret out the guilty party if possible. For several weeks their labors proved unsuccessful, but with their usual perseverance they kept on until at last from circumstances best known to themselves they ited upon. The individual named and took him to the stationhouse. As all thieves do, so did he, deny any knowledge John Beaty, Complainant, vs. Ellen F. Buchanan, et als., Defendants. of being capable or guilty of having done of being capable or guilty of having done a wrong until he found that the officers had evidence against him in certain cases, when he made a full confession. With the large amount of property recovered before his arrest, the detectives have since obtained nearly the entire amount stolen by him, amounting, as already stated, to a very large sum.

MARRIAGE.

Josh Billings on the "Institution". Unlies and its Uncertainties. Marriage is a fair transaction on the But there iz quite too often put up job

It iz an old institushun, older than the pyramids, and az phull of hyrogliphicks that nobody kan perse.

History holds its tounge who the pair wuz fust put on the silken harness, and promised tew work kind in it, thru thick and thin, up hill and down, and on the level; rain or shine, survive or perish, sink or swim, drown or ficte. But whoever they waz, they must have made a good thing out ov it, or so menny ov their posterity would not hav harness ed up since and druy out. There is a grate moral grip in marriage it is the mortar that holds the soshull bricks together. But there ain't but darn few pholks, who put their money in matrimony who could set down and give a good written opinyun whi on arth they cum to do it.

This iz a grate proof that it iz one ov them natral kind ov acksidents that must happen, jist az birds fly out ov the nest, when they hav feathers enuff, without being able tew tell why. Sum marry for buty, and never dis-kover their mistake; this iz lucky.

Sum marry for money, and-don't Sum marry for a pedigree, and feel big for six months, and then very sensibly come to the conclusion that pedigree ain't no better than skimmilk.

Sum marry to please their relashuns, and are surprised tew learn that their reashuns don't care a cuss for them after-Sum marry bekause they hav big high-sted sum where else; this iz a crossmatch, a bay and a sorrel; pride may make f Sum marry for luv, without a cent in their pocket, nor a friend in the world, nor a drop of pedigree. This looks desperate, but it is the strength ov the game.

If marrying for love ain't a success, then matrimony is a ded beet. Sum marry bekause they think wimmin will be scarce next year, and live tew wonder how the crop holds out. Sum marry tew get rid of themselves, and discover that the game was one that two could play at, and neither win. Sum marry the second time to get even, and find it a gambling game, the more they put down the less they take up. Sam marry tu be happy, and not finding it, wonder where all the happiness goes tu when it dies. Sum marry, they can't tell why, and live, they can't tell how. Almost every boddy gets married, and it is a good joke. Sum marry in haste, and then sit down and think it careful over. Sum think it over careful fust, and then set down and marry.

Both ways are right if they hit the Sum marry rakes tu convert them. This iz a little risky, and takes a smart missionary tu do it. Sum marry coquetts. This iz like buying a poer farm, heavily mortgaged, and working the balance ov yure days to clear oph the mortgages. Married life haz its chances, and this iz just what gives it its flavor. Every boddy tuvs tew phool with the chances, bekause every boddy expeckts to win, But I am authorized tew state that ever boddy don't win.

But, after all, married life iz full az certain az the dry goods bizziness. No man kan swear exackly where he will fetch up when be touches calico. No man kan tell jist what calico haz made up its mind tew do next. Calico don't kno even herself. Dry goods ov all kinds iz the child or circumstansis. Sum never marry; but this is jist ez risky; the diseaze iz the same, with no other name to it. The man who stands on the bank shiv vering, and dassent, iz more apt tew catch cold than him who pitches hiz hed fust into the river.

Thare iz but few who never marry be kauze they won't-they all hanker, and most ov them starve with slices ov bread before them (spread on both sides,) jist for the lack ov grit. Marry yung! iz mi motto.

I have tried, and kno what I am talkin If enny boddy asks yu whi yu got marrid, (if it needs be,) tell them, yu don't Marriage is a safe way tew gamble-i yu win, yu win a pile, and if yu loze, yu don't loze enny thing, on the privilege or living dismally alone, and soaking your own feet. I repeat it, in italics, marry yung!

Thare is but one good excuse for a marriage late in life, and that iz-a second marriage. THE CELEBRATED IMPROVED

Cotton—Sir: In running as Engineer on the Nashville and Decatur Road, and in the South during the late war, I was much exposed to malaria, and my health became very bad. About eighteen months ago I had to stop work. I commenced taking your "Southern Star Stomach Bitters," from which I found almost immediate relief. I resumed work, continued to take your Bitters, and have been in perfect health for more than twelve months, while many of the employees have lost time from having chills and fever. I recommend these Bitters as a preventive of fever and ague, and the best stomach preparation I have ever used.

DEAR SIM: It is with much pleasure that I write hardly how to express myself. I have been, for the last ten or twelve years, the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the Gravel, "Kid neys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say, by the quart, also tiquored medicines, but I found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about. I could not rest night or day. It would soon have been "all up's with me if I had not seen your advertisement in many things and cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half the second I still got worse (apparently). When I walked it seemed as if my right ridney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more-and all this time the "Ruchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it; so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday, to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted. On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Bu-

There are no bitters that compare with these in removing those distressing complaints. For sale or can be had at any drug store in the United States. JAMES RUDDLE & CO., Proprietors, Louisville, Kentucky. 78 miles shorter than via Decatur to Memphis.

To James Ruddle & Co., Louisville Rentucky; Gentlemen.—This is to certify that I have been for years a sufferer, and tried all the tonics I ever heard of or seen advertised, with little or no relief from any of them. I heard your Hunley Bitters highly spoken of, and tried a bottle, with little faith in it before I commenced, and to my surprise and joy, before I finished one bottle, I felt a great deal better, and firmly believe that on one or two occasions it was the means of saying and prolonging my life. I conscientiously recommend them to all sufferers as the best bitters known, and advise them to always ask for Dr. T. A. Hurley's, and have no other. You can use this as you think proper, if it will benefit others.
